Dear Richard:

I received the two tapes last week, and many thanks for sending them. I'd been missing Desert Episodes ever since last summer at the time of the Arcila festival.

I can see you're busy, what with score for TV and a concert coming up in April, which is practically now.

How does one transform a volcano into a performance? Are there volcanos in Arizona? All that needs elucidation.

The official winter is over, for which I'm thankful. It's still cold, but at least one knows it's spring, which doesn't really mean much here because there is no spring in any case.

Well, bon travail, and thanks for the two versions of Desert Episodes. (I realize it has a different title now, although what Azax Attra signifies is beyond my powers of etymological deduction.)

all my best,

Paul F.
